COLLIER COUNTY MAN PLEADS GUILTY TO HEROIN CHARGES

Fort Myers, Florida - United States Attorney Paul I. Perez today announced Marc Wolfgang Liebig, a 25 year-old resident of Naples, Florida, pleaded guilty to two counts of conspiracy to possess with intent to distribute heroin and Alprazolam, also known as "Xanax," and one count of possession with intent to distribute Alprazolam to a person under the age of twenty-one. The maximum penalty Marc Wolfgang Liebig faces is up to forty (40) years' imprisonment, a $1 million fine, at least three (3) years of supervised release, and a special assessment of $300.

According to the plea agreement, the defendant participated in conspiracies related to the distribution of heroin and Alprazolam, also known as "Xanax." In addition, the defendant acknowledged his guilt for the distribution of Alprazolam to Jennifer Robinson a person under the age of twenty-one at the time of the distribution.

The case was investigated by the Drug Enforcement Administration Task Force and Naples Police Department. The case was prosecuted by Assistant United States Attorney Jesus M. Casas.
